'89 Eagle Award Winners

MOST VALUABLE PLAYER

Harold Owens

An instrumental part of the Eagles' success in 1989, Harold Owens was named UW-L's Most Valuable Player.

Owens, a native of Milwaukee, enjoyed a very productive senior season, finishing second on the squad in rushing — he gained 545 yards on 149 carries — and second in individual scoring — he finished with 58 points.

A versatile running back, Owens also finished among the team leaders in receiving as he caught 21 passes, totaling 216 yards.

In addition to being honored as the team's MVP, Owens was also recognized by the WSUC as he was named second-team All-Conference.

TOP BLOCK AWARD

Terry Strouf

Terry Strouf, a 6-3, 283-pound, offensive lineman was honored as the recipient of the Top Block Award. The award is presented annually to the Eagles' top offensive lineman.

Strouf, a seventh-round draft choice of the Philadelphia Eagles in the 1990 NFL draft, was a key reason why the Eagles' offense was able to pile up more than 3,800 total yards in offense in 1989.

A native of Ojibwa, Strouf also participated in track and field at UW-La Crosse.

TOP ROCK AWARD

Fritz Leinfelder

Voted as the Eagles' top defensive performer, Fritz Leinfelder was the recipient of the Top Rock Award.

A 5-11, 205-pound defensive back, Leinfelder was one of three UW-L defensive players to be voted first-team All-Conference. Jon Wiltzius and Casey Campbell were the others.

A native of La Crosse, Leinfelder finished the 1989 season with 58 tackles — 29 solos and 29 assists — and broke up seven passes. He also added three interceptions and one fumble recovery.

ROOKIE OF THE YEAR

Kyle Reddy

Kyle Reddy surprised everyone with his superb performance in 1989 and was voted as the squad's Rookie of the Year.

Reddy, who was named second-team All-Conference, led the Eagles in rushing with 848 yards on 160 carries — a 5.4 average — and scored nine touchdowns. A native of Janesville — he attended Janesville Craig — Reddy finished the season as the WSUC's sixth-leading rusher with 600 yards on 112 carries.

The 6-1, 198-pound running back enjoyed his finest outing against St. Ambrose on Oct. 7 as he rushed for 184 yards in UW-L's 36-14 victory.

WSUC Preview '90

Throughout much of the 1980s, the Wisconsin State University Conference labeled itself as a balanced conference, especially in the annual run for the football championships. With the 1990 season about looming on the horizon, it's clear that, if nothing else, the WSUC will once again be a balanced conference.

According to a majority of the conference coaches, La Crosse, the defending WSUC champion, will once again be a force to be reckoned with. The Eagles, who lost to Westminster (PA) in the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics Division II finals the past two years, return a strong group of players ready to defend their conference title.

Whitewater, which won the WSUC championship in 1988, looks to regain that form as it attempts to improve upon last year's mark of 2-5-1. Coach Bob Berezowitz's Warhawks may be able to do just that if quarterback Dennis Bogacz, who's eligible for the 1990 season after transferring from Oshkosh, can regain the form that he showed in 1988.

One year after stunning the conference with a mark of 5-3, Eau Claire enters the 1990 season with high hopes. Coach Jim Lind's Blugolds return a nucleus of players, led by quarterback John Clark, that combined to form the conference's top-ranked offense in 1989.

Platteville, which handed La Crosse its only regular-season loss one year ago, has its sights set on challenging for the conference crown. With 59 letterwinners returning, including 14 starters, Coach George Chryst's Pioneers should be in the title chase throughout the season.

Coach John O'Grady starts his second season at River Falls without "wishbone" triggerman Jeff Saueressig at the controls. One major change that O'Grady's Falcons will undergo, aside from the numerous player changes, will be in the coaching department as legendary coach Mike Farley comes out of retirement to aid his former pupil.

Stevens Point, which finished second in the conference one year ago, might be hard-pressed to repeat the feat as the Pointers enter the 1990 season without quarterback Kirk Baumgartner, who rewrote the Stevens Point record books. With no returning letterman at quarterback, Coach John Miech's Pointers may have to rely more on defense if they are to equal their 8-2-1 mark of a year ago.

Stout, like Stevens Point, must undergo some major changes on offense, having lost quarterback Tim Peterson and wide receiver Scott Fredrickson to graduation. Coach Rich Lawrence should see some improvement in his defense after watching the Blue Devils yield more than 32 points per game last season.

Ted Thompson, a former assistant coach at River Falls, takes over as coach at Superior. With few lettermen returning, Thompson faces a tough task, especially in light of the fact that the Yellowjackets have won only one game in the last two seasons.

Rounding out the conference is Oshkosh. Hurt by the defection of Bogacz, Coach Ron Cardo is still looking for the right offensive combination that will enable the Titans to improve upon a 1-6-1 mark. If Cardo is unable to find it, the Titans may once again find themselves looking up at the rest of the conference.

Athletics at UW-La Crosse

Noel Richards
Chancellor

Douglas N. Hastad
Dean, College of HPER

It's often said that no matter how much something changes it always remains the same. That's certainly true of the UW-La Crosse athletics program. Despite going through some major changes in staff over the past several years, the UW-L athletics program consistently ranks among the top Division III programs in the nation.

Recognized by many as having one of the most well-rounded athletic programs of any university that does not award athletic scholarships, UW-L offers a broad, unified program for both men and women. The goal of the athletics program is to present and develop high ethical standards, good sportsmanship, scholarship and excellence in physical skills. With more than 1,000 students competing in 19 varsity sports, it's clear that UW-L is succeeding.

Among the 19 varsity sports which UW-L offers, 10 sports are for men and nine for women. The men's sports consist of baseball, basketball, cross country, football, golf, swimming, tennis, track and field (indoor and outdoor) and wrestling. Women's athletics consist of basketball, cross country, gymnastics, softball, swimming, tennis, track and field (indoor and outdoor) and volleyball.

Championship titles are part of the La Crosse tradition. Since the school was founded in 1909, UW-L athletic teams have won 15 national titles. In 1989, the UW-L football team reached the NAIA Division II championship game but fell to Westminster College of Pennsylvania 51-30. The championship appearance marked the second consecutive year that the Eagles advanced to the title game. In addition to the football team's success, the men's indoor track team earned a third-place finish nationally, while the women's gymnastics team finished third in the nation for the second consecutive year.

On the state level, several UW-L athletics teams captured top honors in their respective conferences. The football and men's indoor track teams each claimed their respective WSUC titles, while the women's tennis and gymnastics teams also came away with championship crowns in their respective conferences.

For the second consecutive season the UW-L women's athletic teams took the WWIAC All-Sports Award. UW-L is the only school to claim the honor since the award's inception in 1988.

The athletic program is guided by Thomas H. "Tom" Wonderling, who begins his second year as athletics director. Wonderling, who spent several years at The Defiance College in Defiance, Ohio, before coming to UW-L, possesses a vast amount of experience in administration and coaching.

Douglas N. Hastad, like Athletics Director Wonderling, is in his second year at UW-L. Hastad, who previously chaired the Physical Education Department at Texas Christian University, serves as the Dean of the College of Health, Physical Education and Recreation at UW-L.

Roger Harring
Eagles Head Coach

For much of the past two decades the UW-La Crosse football program has attained a level of success unmatched by many other programs. While much of that success must be credited to the athletes and their accomplishments, a large portion of that success can be attributed to the stability that Coach Roger Harring and his assistants have brought to the program.

A graduate of UW-L, Harring enters his 22nd season as the Eagles mentor. Elected to both the UW-L and NAIA District 14 Halls of Fame in 1989, Harring has guided UW-L to a level unmatched by many other college football programs.

One of the winningest active coaches in college football, Harring has compiled a remarkable record of 170-55-7 — a 76% winning percentage — at UW-L. During his tenure, UW-L has appeared in three national championship games — Harring's 1985 squad won the NAIA title — and claimed nine WSUC titles. In addition, UW-L has advanced to the postseason playoffs eight times, including five of the past eight seasons.

Contributing to Harring's success at UW-L are a fine group of assistant coaches, led by Roland Christensen, who begins his 29th season at UW-L. Christensen, who serves as the Eagles defensive coordinator, has consistently built top-notch defensive units that have ranked first or second in the WSUC over the past 18 seasons. Considered by many to be one of the best developers of linebackers on the Division III level, Christensen has developed more All-Conference and All-American players at that position than any other WSUC school.

Completing the UW-L coaching staff are Barry Schockmel, who returns for his 21st season as coach of the defensive secondary; Larry Terry, a UW-La Crosse graduate who begins his third season as offensive coordinator; Tony Christnovich, beginning his third season as defensive line coach; Rik Parker, beginning his first season as receivers coach; and Mick Miyamoto, who begins his first season as offensive line coach.

UW-L Athletic Trainers '90

To a great majority of people outside the La Crosse area, the University of Wisconsin-La Crosse is recognized as an institution with an outstanding academic and athletics program.

While a large part of that reputation can be attributed to the athletes and coaches who make up the athletics department, it can also be attributed to the individuals who make up the athletics training department at UW-L.

Headed by Mark Gibson, who serves as head athletics trainer, UW-L offers prospective athletic trainers a top-rate athletic training program.

The only academic program of its kind in the state, and one of only 65 offered in the U.S., the UW-L athletic program offers students an undergraduate degree in Physical Education - Athletic Training.

Working within the framework of the Physical Education Department, the athletics training program, which is approved by the National Athletic Trainers Association, offers admittance to only 24 students each year. An additional 20 students are put on a probationary period with the top eight admitted to the program the following year.

A very demanding and challenging program, each student is required to maintain a level of academic excellence in addition to putting in between 1,200 and 2,000 hours of clinical work per year. Included in those hours, each student is required to work with a "heavy contact" sport, and individual sport, a team sport and with both male and female athletes. The purpose of each assignment is to enable the students to gain first-hand knowledge in all aspects of athletic training.

In addition to working with each of UW-L's 19 varsity sports, the students also spend time at local hospitals and clinics, including Lutheran Hospital and the University Health Center. During their visits to the hospitals, the students offer assistance to the physicians and hospital staff and gain first-hand experience in surgical procedures.

Assisting Gibson with the program are Pat Sexton, who serves the dual capacity as Assistant Athletic Trainer and Head Football Trainer; Dr. Karen Toburen, the program's curriculum director; and Karen Swanson, a graduate assistant.

Eagles '90 at Home

Sept. 8, 1990 Shrine Game - 7 p.m.

Winona State vs. UW-La Crosse

The Eagles open the 1990 season by battling the Warriors in the 22nd annual Shrine Game.

Winona State, which makes its fourth appearance at the Shrine Game, is under new leadership, as Tom Hosier begins his first year as coach of the Warriors.

With 32 returning letterwinners, including six defensive and five offensive starters, Hosier and the Warriors should improve upon last year's performance which only resulted in one victory.

A big key to any success the Warriors manage will be quarterback Jason Mitchell. A 6-2 senior, Mitchell returns after enjoying an outstanding 1989 campaign.

While the offense is in good hands with Mitchell at the controls, the Warriors defense should also be in good shape.

Led by Wayne Wicka, a junior defensive tackle, and Cleveland Brown, a senior defensive back, the Warriors defense should hold its own in 1990.

If Mitchell enjoys the kind of success in 1990 that he did in 1989, and the Warriors defense can complement its offense, Coach Hosier's first season at Winona State should be more productive than the one victory posted in 1989.

Last season, the Eagles defeated the Warriors 12-0 to open the season.

Sept. 22, 1990 - 1 p.m.

UW-Superior vs. UW-La Crosse

The Yellowjackets, like Winona State, will also battle the Eagles under the guidance of a new coach and with the hope of improving their football fortunes.

Ted Thompson, a former assistant coach at UW-River Falls, takes over the reins of the Superior program left vacant by the resignation of Bill Connor. Connor, who resigned after two seasons at Superior, guided the Yellowjackets to a record of 1-19 overall, 0-16 in the WSUC.

While Thompson's task is indeed great, the new coach has already taken steps to change the Yellowjackets' losing ways.

One of the first moves Thompson made when he arrived at Superior was to implement the "wishbone" offense into Superior's arsenal. The move seemed only natural since Thompson had realized great success with the offense at River Falls.

In addition to changing the offense, Thompson also unveiled a new "smash-mouth" defense.

With only 18 letterwinners returning from last year's 1-9 squad, Thompson may need much more than a new offense and defense to change the fortunes at Superior.

The transition should be a little smoother however, with the return of Bob Demeyer, a junior quarterback; Jeff Emanuel, a senior wide receiver; and Derrick Winn, a junior linebacker.

If Coach Thompson can get some of the winning tradition from River Falls to rub off on his players, the Yellowjackets may see signs of improvement in 1990.

Oct. 13, 1990 Homecoming - 1 p.m.

UW-Platteville vs. UW-La Crosse

Homecoming provides the background as the Eagles look to repay the Pioneers for last season's 34-28 loss.

If the Eagles are to realize success they'll have to be at the top of their game as Coach George Chryst's Pioneers return 59 letterwinners, including 14 starters, from last year's squad which finished 6-2-1.

As in 1989, the offense should once again be the key to Platteville's success.

Bolstered by the return of a strong corps of running backs, led by seniors Dave Shumway and Devin Cobbs, the Pioneers should be more than capable of attaining the 442-yard output which they attained in 1989.

If the Pioneers offense can attain such numbers, it should make things a lot easier for Coach Chryst's defense which will undergo heavy changes in 1990.

With only one returning starter in the secondary, the Pioneers will need major contributions from the entire defense in order to off-set the losses. Chryst must also find a linebacker to replace All-American Dave Runde, who was lost to graduation.

If the Pioneers can remain healthy — that's one of Coach Chryst's biggest concerns — they should once again be a force to be reckoned with in the WSUC.

Oct. 20, 1990 Sports Spirit Day - 1 p.m.

UW-Stout vs. UW-La Crosse

The Blue Devils invade Memorial Field on Sports Spirit Day in an effort to avenge last year's 35-12 loss.

Led by Coach Rich Lawrence, the Blue Devils should be an improved club in 1990 after posting a 3-7 mark in 1989.

The biggest improvement should come on defense. Last season the Blue Devils were horrendous, surrendering more than 32 points per game. That should change this season as several key performers return, led by end Brian Adler and cornerback Mike Lawrence. Both Adler and Lawrence were selected WSUC Honorable Mention in 1989.

While Coach Lawrence should see some improvement in his defense, the offense is another story.

Devastated by the losses of quarterback Tim Peterson and wide receiver Scott Fredrickson — both were lost to graduation — the Blue Devils will be hard pressed to find players who can put up the same kind of numbers as Peterson and Fredrickson. Peterson finished second in the conference in total offense, while Fredrickson led the WSUC in receiving in 1989.

Among the contenders to replace Peterson, the most likely candidate would be Paul Lehmann, who returns for his senior season. Other candidates include Bob Lindburg, who returns to Stout after a three-year layoff, and transfer Joe Hofman.

If Lawrence can find a way to fill the void left by Peterson and Fredrickson, and the Blue Devils defense can show signs of improvement, Stout should improve over last year's mark of 3-7.

Nov. 3, 1990 Parents' Day - 1 p.m.

UW-Eau Claire vs. UW-La Crosse

One year after surprising the WSUC by posting a 7-3 record, which included seven victories in eight games, the Blugolds enter the 1990's with the hope of contending for the WSUC title.

Bolstered by the return of 24 letterwinners, including 14 starters, Coach Jim Lind and the Blugolds may realize that goal.

The WSUC's top-ranked offense in 1989 — Eau Claire averaged 458 yards per game — the Blugolds should once again rank among the conference's most explosive offenses.

Guiding the offense will be quarterback John Clark. The conference's second-leading passer in 1989 — he averaged 295 yards per game — Clark is one of a handful of returning starters who will be looking to close out their college careers in fine fashion.

Clark's main targets will most likely include wide receiver Pete Balistrieri — he caught 29 passes in 1989 — and running backs Chris Herzog and Cary Osborn, who caught 57 and 38 passes, respectively.

Defensively, Coach Lind faces a tough task. Decimated by graduation, the Blugolds must find replacements for nose guard Tim Golden, an All-WSUC performer, as well as defensive linemen Mike Lukas and Chad Christianson.

Lind's concern on defense should be lessened by the return of a strong secondary, led by junior Jeff Hebert and sophomore Dana Strain.

141 S. 7th and King St. - La Crosse
Hwy. 16 - La Crosse

UW-La Crosse men's athletic teams compete in one of the toughest state conferences in the country, the Wisconsin State University Conference (WSUC).

Veteran Max Sparger begins his 20th season at the helm of the WSUC. Sparger came to the commissioner's post from UW-Stout where he had been head football coach and then athletic director. Sparger was inducted into Stout's Hall of Fame in 1980 and the NAIA District 14 Hall of Fame in '85.

The conference began as the Inter-Normal Athletic Conference of Wisconsin, formally organized with eight members in 1913. The original eight members and the dates those schools opened are: Platteville, 1866; Whitewater, 1868; Oshkosh, 1871; River Falls, 1875; Milwaukee, 1885; Stevens Point, 1894; Superior, 1896; and La Crosse, 1909. Stout Institute in Menomonie, another teacher-training facility, joined in 1916 and Eau Claire in 1917. These 10 schools later formed what grew to become the WSUC. Milwaukee withdrew in 1964.

Football became a conference sport in 1913. Superior and Whitewater shared first place that year. Sharing top honors happens often in this conference; 31 championships over the years have been split two, three and even four ways.

Last year, UW-La Crosse captured the crown outright, its 24th title in conference history. La Crosse holds the most conference titles, followed closely by UW-Whitewater with 21. Other titles: UW-River Falls, 17; UW-Platteville, 14; UW-Stevens Point, 10; UW-Milwaukee, 8; UW-Oshkosh, 7; UW-Eau Claire, 7; UW-Superior, 6; UW-Stout, 4.

Shrine Benefit Game '90

“Strong legs run, that the weak may walk”

Layla Favre 1990 Shrine Queen

Welcome to the 22nd annual La Crosse Shrine Charity Football Game! Each year one area youngster who has been helped by the Shrine is chosen king or queen of this event. We are pleased to have Layla Favre as queen of this year's game.

Layla, the daughter of Larry and Pamela Favre of La Crosse, will celebrate her eighth birthday tomorrow. She was born with club feet and has received care at the Shriners Hospital in Chicago. She had surgery to repair her feet when she was 10 months old. Since then, she has returned to the hospital every year so the staff can check on her progress. She will continue the annual checkups until she reaches age 18.

Layla, a third-grade student at Franklin Elementary School, loves to read and ride her bicycle and talks of one day becoming a doctor.

With nearly one million members throughout North America, the shriners are committed to the preservation and growth of “the world's greatest philanthropy.” Each year, through their hospital assessments and hundreds of fund-raising activities, such as tonight's game, the Shriners demonstrate their support for this cause, believing that “No man stands so straight as when he stoops to help a crippled or burned child.”

Greetings . . .

UW-La Crosse - Winona State football fans

As Potentate of Zor Shrine, I am delighted to welcome you to the 22nd annual football game tonight. This game will benefit the children that are cared for in the 19 Orthopedic Hospitals sponsored by the Shrine of North America. I want to also thank the athletes, their coaching staffs and the athletic departments of both universities for their extra effort in making this game so beneficial to the children that we care for.

We are always wanting to let people know that this care is available to children up to the age of 18, at no cost to their families or their insurance companies. A toll-free number, 1-800-237-5055 can be called if you know of a child who is in need of our service or certainly feel free to contact any Shriner that you know.

Again, on behalf of all of the 4,500 Nobles of Zor Shrine, we thank you for coming and know you will enjoy the game and the cause it supports.

*Sincerely,
John M. Benedict
Potentate, Zor Temple*

EAGLES

EAGLES OUTLOOK

When Coach Roger Harring was asked to assess his team's chances in tonight's game against Winona State, his response was "we really don't know what to expect."

While the answer may seem somewhat irregular, it certainly is understandable. Winona State will play tonight's Shrine Game under the guidance of a new head coach — Tom Hosier.

And while Coach Harring would certainly like to know something about the Warriors, he isn't going to let the lack of information affect the Eagles' game plan.

"We're approaching this game as we would any other," Harring said. "We plan on attacking them both offensively and defensively."

Offensively, the Eagles possess an arsenal of weapons.

Leading the way is junior quarterback Dennis Goettl, who returns with a year's experience under his belt. Last season, Goettl threw for 2,258 yards and 17 touchdowns in guiding the Eagles to the NAIA championship game.

Among the many targets Goettl will have to throw to will be Pete Hightower, Dan Bridges, Billy O'Neill and Don Lee. Bruce Hoesley and Marcus Glenn will carry the bulk of the rushing load.

One key member from the 1989 squad that won't see action tonight is Kyle Reddy. The squad's top rusher in 1989 with 848 yards, Reddy injured a knee last week during practice.

"The loss of Kyle Reddy was a serious blow," Coach Harring said. "With the season he had last year, we were really looking forward to the upcoming season."

Defensively, the Eagles are in excellent shape. With several key starters returning, including Casey Campbell, Andy Pretasky, Jon Wiltzius and Jon Lauscher, UW-L is once again primed to display one of the nation's top defenses.

"I think this year's defense is more experienced than last year's," Harring said. "Losing Fritz Leinfelder — he suffered a broken leg during the summer — has had an effect, but our players have adjusted and are progressing real well."

The Eagles will put that progress to the test tonight. Last year, UW-L defeated Winona State 12-0 to open the season.

WARRIORS

WARRIORS OUTLOOK

When Winona State invades Memorial Stadium tonight to battle the Eagles, the Warriors sport a much different look from the 1989.

Yes, the Warriors, like any other college football team, have undergone some changes in personnel. The biggest change, however, comes in the coaching staff. Hosier begins his first year at the head of the Warriors program.

Hosier, who joined Winona State this summer after spending a year at College (MN), fills the vacancy left by Bassore, who led the Warriors to a 7-1 record over three seasons.

A native of New Haven, Conn., Hosier doesn't expect to turn the program around overnight — the Warriors finished 1-9 last season.

"When people watch our football team, they will see a team that will play to its true potential," Hosier says.

Much of that potential comes from the back position.

With three-year starter Jason Mitchell returning for his senior season and Rob Illies providing help at the backup, the Warriors should be able to put up a competitive score. Last season, Mitchell threw for 1376 yards and five touchdowns.

A major concern offensively is the lack of depth. While the quarterback position is secure, the Warriors are thin on the offensive line.

Defensively, the Warriors lack size and strength.

Wayne Wicka, a Dodge native and former Arcadia athlete, is one of a handful of returnees from a defense that surrendered 303 points a year ago. Wicka, a junior defensive tackle, led the Warriors with 101 tackles, 36 solos and 45 assists — and 7 sacks in 1989.

With many holes to fill and not enough players to fill them, it would appear that it will be a long year for the Warriors. Hosier doesn't see it that way, however.

"We don't know how we are going to do this season, and neither does anyone," Hosier said. "That is what is kind of fun about this — the surprise aspect, and to do have a chance to be successful."

Sports Spirit '90

When former UW-L athletics director E. William Vickroy conceived the idea of "Sports Spirit" in the spring of 1986, his main goal in developing the program may have been to get a small portion of the community involved in supporting the UW-L athletics program. Little did he know to what extent the program would grow.

Today, less than five years after Vickroy founded the fundraising drive, known as "Sports Spirit," the program contains a list of more than 70 companies and/or merchants which participate in the program. (See opposite page for participating members)

The program is designed so that cash gifts may be sent in care of "Sports Spirit" to help the UW-L athletics program. Friends and alumni of UW-L can help by purchasing products/items from participating merchants.

Vickroy, who retired as athletics director in July 1987, unveiled the "Sports Spirit" program at a press conference on October 7, 1986. The fund-raising drive was implemented because, according to Vickroy, the University preferred the "Sports Spirit" program to simply asking merchants for donations.

"The idea is just not having donations but involvement," said Vickroy, who studied fund-raising at Ohio State, the University of Oregon and the University of Washington before devising the program. "Instead of asking for a handout, we're giving them something in return. People are noticing their products."

In order for customers to identify which products are part of the program, signs are placed in prominent positions in the participating stores and restaurants.

The four major outlets involved in the "Sports Spirit" program in 1986 were: Quillin's food stores, Kwik Trip stores, Burger King and Mr. D's Donut Shop. Other companies supporting the drive or providing products were: Barrel of Fun, Coca-Cola, G. Heileman Brewing Co., Tony's Pizza, Western Dressing, Creamette Co., Feinberg Meats, Wilson Meat Co., Kemps Ice Cream, Bakalars Bros. Sausage Co., Erickson Bakeries, Klement's Sausage, Carnation Co., Thompson-Clark Gerritsen Co., Marigold Foods, Inc., Clason Pontiac, WKTY AM-FM and WXOW-Channel 19.

The merchants listed above designate products and donate a certain amount of proceeds to the UW-La Crosse athletics program.

Among the instrumental corporate charter individuals who helped "Sports Spirit" get off the ground were: Phil Quillin, Quillin IGA; Jack Gagemeier, Quillin IGA; Pat Stephens, UW-L Foundation; Bill Beranek, G. Heileman Brewing Co.; and E. William Vickroy.

GOALS: The goals of the "Sports Spirit" program are: 1) To maintain the high quality of comprehensive and competitive athletics on an educational and non-scholarship level; 2) To have a creative involvement effort to continue a quality athletic program; 3) To provide an additional source of teams/total program income; 4) To involve alumni, friends and business in the athletics program; an involvement, not just a donation effort, will prove total awareness, benefits and excellent relationships; 6) To devise a better plan for the development of UW-La Crosse Athletics; 7) To use "Sports Spirit" dollars primarily as a source for supporting the UW-L Athletics program needs not supported by the UW-L student processed budget.

The CAMPAIGN DATES for 1990 are September 9-22, with CHECK PRESENTATION on Oct. 20 at the UW-La Crosse vs. UW-Stout football game.

Players Try, Make Pros

One measure of a football team is how many of its players earn professional tryouts. By that measure, La Crosse looks very strong.

Since 1950, 29 UW-La Crosse players have had professional tryouts. Ten of the 29 were drafted by professional clubs; the rest signed as free agents.

Twelve of the tryouts have come since 1980.

UW-La's most recent additions to the pro ranks are playing in the NFL. Terry Strout, '89, was drafted in the seventh round by the Philadelphia Eagles. Tom Newberry, '86, was drafted by Los Angeles in the second round and enters his fifth season with the Rams. He became the starter at left guard midway through his first season and has made two trips to the Pro Bowl.

Joel Williams, '78, played 11 years in the NFL with the Eagles and the Atlanta Falcons before retiring in 1989.

Earlier grads who played pro ball include Ace Loomis, '50, who played seven years for the Cleveland Browns and the Green Bay Packers; John Knispel, '51, who spent two years with the Browns; and Willie Berzinski, '56, who played for Philadelphia after being drafted by L.A. Dewey Stendahl, '69, and Tony Christnovich, '70 both played for the Washington Redskins, Stendahl for two years and Christnovich for one.

UW-La Crosse All-Americans

One doesn't build a football tradition without quality players, and All-American honors are one mark of quality players. Since intercollegiate football began here in 1911, 34 athletes have been awarded All-American honors by the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) or the Associated Press.

Some players were honored more than once. Jim Byrne takes top billing in that category with two NAIA Division I nominations and a Little All-American ranking to his credit. Ted Pretasky made the NAIA Division II first team twice and the second team once.

Other names familiar to UW-L football fans appear twice in the listings: Willie Berzinski, Joel Williams, Tom Newberry, Phil Ertl, and Joe Mirasola.

Several of the All-Americans have gone on to represent La Crosse in the national football ranks. Twenty-nine La Crosse players have had professional tryouts. Check the list on page 24.

Never out of touch.

Scholar-Athletes

La Crosse athletes major in academics. They're students first and athletes second.

We're especially proud of our women athletes, who took the WWIAC All-Academic Award for 1989-90. The women have had sole custody of the award since it was established two years ago.

Twelve athletes achieved UW-La Crosse Scholar-Athlete honors and were feted at the eighth annual Scholar-Athlete Reception last spring. The honor recognizes outstanding performance in scholarship, athletics and leadership. Winners must have participated in a sport for at least three years and be in their last year of eligibility, have at least a 3.25 cumulative grade point average, and earned at least 90 credit hours.

1989-90 Recipients:

Steve Warren—baseball
Janene Klein—cheerleading
William Albright—cheerleading
Richard Tanko—cheerleading
Susie Milts—gymnastics
Stephanie Rowe—basketball
Tricia Staehling—tennis
Teri Schreder—track and field
Chris Kastner—track and field
Val Stenseth—track and field
Sara Gilles—cross country and track
Neil Sternweis—football

Today's Typical Student Athlete

Different sports and programs have their "typical stereotype athlete," but, in essence, there is no typical student-athlete, no more than there is a typical college student. There are, however, some generalities that some of them agree on:

Studying

Approximately two to two and a half hours a day, or ten hours a week. That figure increases with exam schedules and projects.

Class load

Around 15-18 hours a semester, depending upon the major and when their respective sport is in "season."

Practice

Normally two to two and a half hours a day in season. Some sports also require two-a-day practices.

Road trips

There are differing opinions here. Some look at them as educational experiences, others, as opportunities to catch up on studying and rest, while others view them as interruptions to classwork, especially near exam time.

Free time

No standard answer here. Female athletes enjoy visiting friends in the dorms or apartments, listening to records, dating, watching television (especially soap operas in the afternoon and in prime-time) and shopping. Male athletes like to sleep (naps rank high), listen to music, visit friends and date.

Summer activities

If summer school wasn't an option or mandatory, full-time employment either in the college town or home town is the first priority. That is followed by practicing their sport for approximately two hours a day.

Food & drink

You probably think all athletes have stock in fast-food chains. While it is true that athletes have been known to down a few burgers or a whole pizza in one sitting, they are conscious of what they eat, especially in season. Depending on their sport, some curtail their red-meat intake, while others load up on it, along with fruits and vegetables. Soft drinks rate high (diet with the females), along with fruit juices.

Organizing their time

Not everyone agrees on a list of priorities, but the most frequent answers rank going to class first, followed by practice studying and a social life.

While this can hardly be construed as a scientific survey, athletes seem to fit in to the mold of the "typical college student," despite what their critics say.

UW-La Crosse

La Crosse and gemutlichkeit — the German word for the good life — are synonymous, especially during fall and Oktoberfest. A year-round gemutlichkeit spreads across the UW-La Crosse campus, too, where students tell us they come here for the range of programs, the friendly atmosphere and just-right size, and the area's beauty.

The campus sits in a residential area of La Crosse, about a mile from the base of towering limestone bluffs in one direction and the mighty Mississippi in another. The 119-acre campus, one of the smallest in the UW system, includes a recently-refurbished student union, a 500,000-volume library with a new computerized catalog system, a science-math complex with a planetarium and audio-tutorial labs, an extensive computer system with 279 work stations, an FM radio station, and an extensive physical education complex.

Friendliness and recreation have played a key role at UW-L since its beginning. Fassett Cotton, first president of the university when it opened in 1909 as the La Crosse Normal School, left a permanent mark with his support of physical education as a specialty. Cotton believed in educating the whole person, as well as every person. He said education should train the body and spirit as well as the mind. That philosophy is evident in the UW-L seal with the Latin words "mens Corpus-que," mind and body.

Roots deep in teacher and physical education have sprouted new growth, most recently in business, computer science and physical therapy. UW-L now offers nearly 80 programs for undergraduates — from accountancy to women's studies — and master's degrees in 18 disciplines.

As the 21st century approaches, plans for a more multicultural environment and a new general education program lead the way. Like the other UW System campuses, UW-L has implemented a multicultural awareness program called "Design for Diversity."

The program is designed to bring and keep more minority students and faculty here and to give students more opportunities to meet others from diverse backgrounds. Plans call for special events and classes to prepare students for a global economy and environment.

The General Education Program, which takes effect next fall, will replace the current Basic Studies portion of every student's degree. The program will use "inquiry-based courses," to encourage students to think critically and reason effectively.

While the number of La Crosse students has decreased with enrollment management, their quality has increased. Freshman ACT scores, which nationally have remained relatively static during the past five years, have shown steady improvement here. Average ACT scores at UW-L have gone up from 19.1 in 1985 to 20.6 in 1989. The national average remained around 18.7 during those five years.

Nearly half our students receive some sort of financial aid to help with their education. The 1989-90 figures show 60 percent of the aid was awarded in loans, 30 percent in grants and scholarships (the UW-L Foundation awards more than $125,000 each spring) and 10 percent in jobs.

Students paying back loans find their degrees a key to making those monthly payments. Surveys of graduates in December 1988, and May and August 1989 show that 97 percent looking for jobs found work within six months after completing classes. Of those, 76 percent were employed in a job related to their major. The average annual salary was $18,983, including part-time salaries.

Free visitation days called Campus Close-ups are offered for students interested in UW-La Crosse. Close-up Fridays this year are Oct. 19, Oct. 26, and Dec. 7, 1990, and Feb. 8 and April 18, 1991.

Campus tours leave from Admissions, 115 Main Hall, at 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. weekdays when school is in session. Everyone is welcome.
